

How Achieving a COR Can Help your Company

Juliet Goodwin
Enform

Summary

The COR process requires employers to develop and implement a health and safety program that meets provincial standards. This process results in improved worker safety, reduced costs due to lost productivity, replacement worker training, property damage and incident investigation as well as reducing legal risk exposure. The other benefit is by developing effective health and safety management systems, you can earn up to 20 per cent off your industry rate. Enform is the Certifying Partner for the COR program for the oil and gas industry. We develop the program offerings through a consultative process with oil and gas industry employers, ensuring that your specific industry needs and risks are addressed.

Introduction

Juliet Goodwin- Juliet is a Canadian Registered Safety Professional with over 5 years of health & safety experience in the oil & gas industry. She spent the last 17 years working at Enform in the Certificate of Recognition program and has seen much growth in the COR program throughout those years. Juliet has had the chance to work with the six major oil and gas associations in her role for the Safety Audits and Certifications department.